DECORATION DAY.

Services at the Church—Full Text of an Able Sermon by the Rev. Mr. Wadman.

At the Cemeteries—The Graves Strewn with Flowers—A Large Number Present.

The interesting proceedings of the annual Decoration day commenced yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, when about 100 of the 420 Odd Fellows in the city assembled in the hall on Douglas street and marched to the Pandora Street Methodist Church. The three lodges, Victoria No. 1, Columbia No. 2 and Dominion No. 4 were represented. All the members wore white gloves and those of the scarlet degree a small badge designating their rank in the Order. The march from the hall was made in double file. Arriving at the church door the company "opened order" and allowed the Grand Lodge officers, headed by Grand Master Davies, to pass in first, the others following and taking their seats in the front rows of the middle aisles, which had been reserved for the occasion. The sermon preached by Rev. Mr. Wadman, a member of the Order, gave such general satisfaction that it is published in full.

THE SERMON.

"How blessed a thing it is for brethern to dwell together in unity"—Psalm 133, 1st verse.

There are many pleasant relations which men sustain to each other in this world. Human lives meet and mingle and an intercourse like threads in a golden texture of glossy richness and manifold colors and never does human nature appear to better advantage than when seen in the light of its relationships. No thread, no matter of what richness of color, can rival the magnificence of the entire robe. There, for instance, is the relation between parent and child regarded almost the world over with respect and reverence. There, too, is the relation between husband and wife and when represented by harmony of taste and temperament, where can you find a lovelier exhibition? Then there are the relations which exist between brothers and sisters; between the Government and the citizen, between the Church and its members—and these are pleasant to contemplate and are certainly productive of happiness and good to man.

But there is one other relation man can sustain to man, which as a spontaneous and self-educated impulse of one soul for another soul, as an evidence of mutual likes and aspirations, and as a proof in the higher exhibitions of itself of constancy and unselfish benevolence, is inferior to no other. I refer to the relation which exists between the members of that Society whose decoration day we have met at this hour to commemorate by acts of divine worship.

Looking into the ages past and gone we cannot but recognize the fact that it has taken the world many long centuries to reach the true idea of universal brotherhood. How often, how often, men have tried to explore its real meaning, the page of history records, and with like fidelity it records their repeated failures. One hundred years ago the sacred name of Brotherhood was inscribed in flaming letters above the guillotine in the streets of Paris when the blood of the noble and the pure and the good was shed like water in the sacred name of fraternity. The middle ages witnessed the same attempt in the monasteries and brotherhoods with which Europe then abounded, but it did not take long for men to discover that the profession of Brotherhood and the possession of the principles which underlie true Brotherhood were absolutely two different things. Still the world was not discouraged. Humanity's watchword is progress—'mid conflict stern and patience long, 'mid clash of arms and flash of steel, 'mid tyrants' chains and dungeons' grates, onward, ever onward pressed the combined forces of a hopeful humanity, disheartened by no obstacle, repelled by no foe, till the true meaning of Brotherhood was understood and its principles reduced to the actual practice of daily life.

Among the many human organizations which have been instituted to aid the onward efforts of humanity towards this result none occupy more important relations than that of the I. O. O. F., whose introduction into America took place in the year 1806, but whose real establishment as it now exists by our deceased brother Thos. Wildley, did not occur till the year 1819. Mr. Wildley's unfinished labors were efficiently prosecuted by Jas. L. Ridgely to whose memory a splendid monument was recently erected by order of the Sovereign Grand Lodge in the City of Baltimore. On this day in which we deck with flowers the graves of our dead brothers, we may find it pleasant to remind ourselves of the many instances of fraternal love with which the history of our beloved order is so richly fraught and in addition to point out to each other the ameliorating effect which a proper and conscientious administration of our laws and the inculcation of the principles upon which Odd Fellowship is founded always secure. As an institution we have passed the threshold of minority and our Worthy Grand Sire in his proclamation, reported by our Grand Master, reminds us that more than a half of century has passed away since the inauguration of the idea of Odd Fellowship and the organized application of its workings upon society. We have entered upon the sixty-eighth year of our existence, having, in all the past of our existence, under the guidance of an All-Wise Providence and in keeping with the laws and regulations of our Order, exerted a salutary and beneficient influence upon mankind. To the end of a more widely diffused good the powers that be have extended the field of labor beyond the limits of our own country and by permission of the law makers the standard of Odd Fellowship has recently been lifted up in many foreign lands. To day there is the proud satisfaction of knowing that great good has been the result, many thousands of our kindred having been drawn to worship at that altar upon which brightly burns the lambent flame whose purpose is to guide men to a purer and better life. From last year's report of the Sovereign Grand Lodge we learn that in America alone there are over 9000 subordinate lodges with a membership of nearly 547,000, and a total revenue of over $5,000,000. Hand in hand with its numerical development Odd Fellowship has also grown in its benevolent operations, so that within the past half century upwards of $43,000,000 have been dispensed for the relief of the distressed and the needy. Yes, when and where fearful epidemic has stalked the land and plied its merciless trade among the habitations of men, when and where conflagration and disaster have spread their woes in the busy marts of trade, when and where hunger and starvation have ravaged with ruthless hand the sons and daughters of toil, then and there Odd Fellowship with its yearly expenditure of over $200,000 has gone to rescue, relieve and bless. In connection with these statistics, it may be permitted me to say, that among the uninstiated a too common error prevails in reference to the object of the order, in supposing it to be a mere beneficial society alone, having for its single purpose the relief of its members in the struggle incident to human life. Mutual relief it is true is a leading office in our affiliation. To visit the sick, relieve distress, to bury the dead and to educate the orphan is the command of our laws and an imperative duty which Odd Fellowship enjoins. But these although its frequent and daily ministrations are but a tithe of the intrinsic virtues of our beloved order. Odd Fellowship is founded upon that eternal principle which, recognizing man as a constituent of our universal Brotherhood, teaches him that as he came from the hands of a common parent he is bound to cherish and protect his fellow man. Based upon certain truths, which are alike axioms among all nations, tongues and creeds, its sacred tolerance presents a nucleuss (under its comprehensive influences all the nations of the earth may concentrate their energies for the good of the common race), which by its gentle influence gathers within its orbit antagonistic natures, controls the elements of discord, stills the storm and soothes the spirit of passion and directs in harmony man's united efforts to fraternize the world. This then, brethren and friends, is the great first principle of Odd Fellowship which we denominate fraternity—"a universal fraternity in the family of man." Our forefathers wisely made this principle the corner stone of Fellowship and upon its solid basis the whole superstructure has securely rested and as we believe is destined immovably to repose till time shall be no more. From this principle we learn to regard the great author of our existence as Our Father in whom we live, move and have our being; to recognize each other alike the offspring of the same parent as the masterpiece of His handiwork and designed as such to reflect in our nature and relations the image of Him after whose likeness man was formed. We are therefore brothers and in all intercourse we endeavor to illustrate the truthfulness of this profession by reciprocal relief and kindly offices to one another in the day of trial.

The charges sometimes made that Odd Fellowship is anti-Christian is utterly false. While every lodge room is consecrated in the name of God, every meeting is supposed to begin and end with appeals to His holy name. While the sacred volume is never removed from the table upon which it lies during the session of the lodge, we can afford to treat such a charges either as the misapprehension of the ignorant or the foul slander of the malicious.

Odd Fellowship is not religion. She leaves that great solemn question to be settled between a man and his God. All that she demands of her sons is that they shall adore the Almighty Father, shall love the universal brotherhood, shall visit the widow and the fatherless in their affliction, and shall keep themselves from the vices and sins of the world. Our doors are only closed against the atheist and libertine. As I intimated Odd Fellowship is not a church. Nor does it in any way take the place nor intrude upon the domain of the church of the Living God. But it should be its friend and handmaiden. Now and again a brother whose enthusiasm runs away with his sober judgment may say that he finds enough in Odd Fellowship to satisfy him mentally and spiritually and asks no other religion. But he has never read this on the scrolls of our mysteries and one who has drank deeply at the mystic fountain of light and knowledge will not thus confound the divine and the human. In rebuke to such an one Odd Fellowship would quickly make answer in the words with which the angel spoke to that worthy guard of our mysteries, St. John the Evangelist when he was about to offer his heavenly guidy the worship due the Eternal Noble Grand: "See thou do it not. I am thy fellow servant and of thy brethren. Worship God."

Odd Fellowship is one of the grandest human institutions in existence. It towers far above the mountain tops, but it makes no covenant with God for salvation. Its altars are indeed sacred, but they are hallowed only by the fealty of humanities and by fraternal love which prays for and receives the blessings of the eternal one. It is the crystallization of the truth of the brotherhood of man, sanctified by that other truth the fatherhood of God. Thus the influence of our order is but to bear directly upon the powers and faculties which are the distent part of our nature and which will become more pure and holy the higher we ascend in the scale of moral and spiritual advancement.

At the beginning of my remarks I spoke of that tie which binds the members of an order together as one brotherhood being so much stronger than the tie of patriotic relation, connubial relation or even of parental relation in certain senses. What is that tie? What is its nature? What are the constituent parts of that cement which secures such a structure? Tell us, we wish to know what that peculiar principle of association is which can nurture and produce such beneficial and expensive results. We pause here for a moment, therefore, to enquire into the nature of this bond of unity, in which for brethren to dwell, the Psalmist thought was so pleasant to see and good to behold.

The first and most important emblem of our Order is The Three Links, representing the three cardinal virtues, Friendship, Love and Truth, and to the inculcation and practice of these three graces is permitted us to trace the good results which Odd Fellowship has already secured, which upon such an order we rest our hope for the future. Investigate then the nature and bearing of these virtues. Take them one by one.

Friendship—If there is one natural truth which stands more revealed and self-evident than another it is this: Life—life in its divine aspects consists in the fulfillment of its relations. But do you ask what relations? Those in which every man is born; those from which it is possible for no man to extricate himself; these out of which all duty grows. Mr. Emerson says: "The whole human family is bathed with an element of love, like fine ether." True, and he could have added, to bring forth this inspiring love with form and expression in the sacred office of friendship; other offices of duty have

TO-DAY'S DISPATCHES.

Two Women Engage in a Prize Fight Near Buffalo—Terrible Brutality.

Judge Terry's Sentence Sustained—Immigrants Badly Rattled—Marine Information.

FIGHT BY AMAZONS.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 17—An exciting prize fight occurred early this morning between Mrs. Hattie Leslie, a young married woman of this city, and Miss Alice Leary, of Bradford, Pa. Both were strong young persons under 30 years of age. Both have had considerable experience in sparring and showed considerable science. The fight occurred on Navy Island in Niagara river. Seven rattling rounds were fought, Mrs. Leslie being seconded by La Blanche, "the Marine," and Miss Leary by Billy Boker. Mrs. Leslie won in the seventh round on a terrific right hander delivered between the eyes of her opponent. Both were badly punished, Mrs. Leslie having two black eyes and Miss Leary one. The fight was witnessed by about 50 sports. The stakes were $500 a side and the female championship of the world. "I could have knocked her out in the third round," said Mrs. Leslie, while dressing with her husband's assistance, "but I wanted to keep up the excitement. She only hit me four times, but they counted; they were in the mouth and one between the eyes." "I quit," said Miss Leary, "and she will tell you privately she knows I wanted her to win, so she might make money by it. Poor thing, she knows she can't knock me out. I only hit her four times, for I could not bear to do it. She will tell you I was not licked."

BREAD RIOTS IN PARIS.

Paris, Sept. 17.—In consequence of the municipal decree lowering the price of bread the bakers of St. Denis have closed their shops. The working people becoming incensed plundered some of the shops and a few have been reopened. Great excitement prevails and many arrests have been made.

IMMIGRANTS HUSTLED ABOUT.

New York, Sept. 17.—At Castle Garden this afternoon about 200 frightened immigrants were hustled about owing to a dispute between the railroad men on one side claiming the other side had stolen a barge full. The excitement lasted nearly an hour, when Commissioner Stephenson accidently appeared and straightened out matters for the immigrants.

New York, Sept. 17.—The French steamship La Bourgoyne which arrived to day from Havre, experienced a terrible cyclone from the west on Wednesday, which lasted thirty-six hours. During the storm part of the bridge was carried away, and the boats were started from their fastenings. Yesterday morning a seaman fell from aloft overboard striking the rail in his descent and was lost.

WASHINGTON POLITICAL GOSSIP.

Washington, Sept. 17—Reports are coming into the capital from different points of an encouraging nature for the Republicans. Quite an animated war has broken out among the local Democratic politicians in the Old Dominion. The Republicans are quite gleeful over the renewed opposition of President Cleveland to the abolition of the tobacco tax and the hints of the letter of acceptance of Gen. Harrison in favor of the Blair educational bill. The trouble has been made worse because of the active advocacy of local Democratic speakers in favor of these two propositions. They have in fact devoted most of their time to arrangements in support of the total abolition of the tobacco tax, and in the case of the Blair educational bill there is a decided feeling among the people in its favor.

LIFE-SAVING STATION.

San Francisco, Sept. 17—Major T. J. Blakeley, superintendent of the life-saving service on this coast, says he is in the receipt of news that the plans for a new station proposed on the north-western coast and that alterations to the old ones are at present receiving attention from the Secretary of the Treasury. The following are some of the proposed improvements most likely to be favorably considered: Improvement to the station at Cape Disappointment and the removal of the present station from the Indian reservation at Neah Bay to Wagadda Island and the erection of a new station at the mouth of the Columbia River near Fort Stevens.

MARINE NOTES.

San Francisco, Sept. 17—The steamer Cosmopolis spoke on the 15th inst. the barkentine Ella, bound for San Luis Obispo, with six of her crew down with fever.

The German bark Enterpe, which arrived this morning, made the fastest time on record between Cardiff and here; time 94 days. The previous best time was 96 days. The Enterpe is a four masted iron bark.

Capt. Lewis, of the barkentine Webfoot reports a schooner ashore at Grace Harbor.

The steamer Caracas was sold this morning to the Oregon Developing Co., for $175,000. She will run to Yaquina Bay.

The yacht Ariel was wrecked yesterday on Fish Rock, near Bowen's landing, while on his way to Alaska, on a pleasure fishing trip. Will be a total loss.

TERRY CASE.

The petition of D. S. Terry, in the United States court for reconsideration and revocation of judgment in the matter of contempt at the time of decision of demurrer in the suit against the Sharon estate, came up Saturday morning. Justice Field rendered an opinion that the court held that the sentence instead of being excessive was not commensurate with the probity of the offence. Justice Field also alluded to the movement made by Terry when he placed his hand in his vest, saying his evident intention was to draw a weapon. His resistance and attack on the marshall was the highest indignity and insult that could be offered to the government. When the stars and stripes are fired upon it is considered an insult to the emblem of the nation. The assault on the marshall was also an insult to the government. The court, therefore, with the greatest regard to its own dignity and majesty of the law and necessity of impressing upon all men that forcible resistance to lawful ideas of the U. S. Courts will not go unpunished, refuses to modify the sentence.

Prof. Davidson, of the coast and geodetic survey, answering a question as to the probable work on the northern coast says everything depends on the fate of the Sunday civil service bill. The survey office will be guided entirely by the appropriation, though no doubt considerable important work remains to be done in and about the Columbia River. The work at Gray's Harbor is finished.

EARTHQUAKE.

San Jose, Cal., Sept 16.—A sharp earthquake awoke nearly every person in this city at 3.43 yesterday morning. The vibrations were from north to south one minute.

FROM OTTAWA.

The Cardwell Election—Lobsters for the Pacific.

(Special to THE TIMES.)

Writs for the Cardwell election will be issued at once. White, son of the late Thomas White, the Tory candidate, is here arranging with the government for the campaign.

Tupper, minister of revenue, states that next season he will experiment with transporting lobsters from Ottawa to the Pacific.

BASEBALL TOURNAMENT.

Victoria Triumphant—They Defeat Vancouver with a Score of 15 to 0.

Special to THE TIMES.

Kamloops, Sept 17—The committee arranged the following programme for the baseball matches this morning: The Victoria Amities versus Vancouver; Donald versus New Westminster.

The games this morning resulted in a victory for the Amities with a score of 15 runs, Vancouver 0. In the game between Westminster and Donald, the first-named club scored 17 runs, Donald 9 runs.

To-morrow morning the Vancouver nine will play the Donald's; the Amities will be pitted against the New Westminster nine. In the afternoon Victoria will compete with the Donald's and the Vancouverites will cross bats with the New Westminsters. The playing this morning proves that the Amities are the best men and will carry off the prize.

ANOTHER SEALER SEIZED.

A Victoria Schooner Seized and Taken to Vladivostock.

Messrs. Hall & Goepel, of this city received a letter from Capt. Sieward, of the sealing schooner Araunah, informing them of the seizure of his vessel in the North Pacific ocean on the 1st of July last. Capt. Sieward was on board the China steamer Batavia, which passed up last night en route to Vancouver and sent his letter ashore by the pilot boat. He will probably return to Victoria this evening on the Yosemite, when full details of the seizure will be obtained.

Capt. Sieward states that the seizure was made in the North Pacific ocean, and off the Asiatic coast, by the Alaska Commercial Company's steamer "Alexander II." After taking the Araunah she was taken to Vladivostock, where she is now held. Capt. Sieward placed the matter in the hands of Her Majesty's consul at St. Petersburgh, and the outrage is now forming the subject of diplomatic correspondence. Capt. Sieward proceeded from Vladivostock to Yokohama, and there took passage on the Batavia.

The Araunah is a new and first-class schooner, 73 tons register, and is owned by Hall, Goepel & Co. She was brought from Lunenburg, N. S., about a year ago, and at the time of the seizure was believed to have one hundred skins on board.

This seizure will further complicate the Behring Sea question. The Alexander II is said to be an Alaska Commercial Company's steamer, but this may be an error, as the name of the vessel and the destination of the captured schooner would indicate that the Russians have taken a hand in the piracy business in Behring Sea about the time that the Americans decided to retire.

THREE SEALERS ARRIVE.

The Schooner Viva High Line—A Splendid Catch.

The sealing schooner Viva, Captain Baker, arrived from Behring Sea late this afternoon. Her catch in the north is 2875 seals, making the Viva so far high line for the season. One of the Messrs. Sheild Bros., of Sooke, who were hunters on board, informed the reporter that the U. S. cutters had not been seen. The Viva entered the sea on the 24th of July and left the 3rd of this month. On the 15th of July the Favorite, on which was Mr. Charlie Spring, one of the owners, was spoken. He said they intended going into the sea. The Viva is owned by Messrs. Carne, Munsie & Bechtel.

The schooner Pathfinder arrived yesterday with 600 skins. She was in Behring Sea, but kept out of the way of the cutters. The Pathfinder is owned by Messrs. Carne, Munsie & Bechtel.

The Annie C. Moore also arrived yesterday with 750 skins. She has no news to report. She schooner is owned by Capt Hackett and a Mr. Moore, who is at present in the east.

The schooners Rosa Olsen, Mountain Chief with 800 skins, and the Annie, of San Francisco, are on their way down. The Webster has gone to Port Townsend.

SPORTING NOTES.

WRESTLING.

A wrestling match between Jack McKeown, of Vancouver, and John C. Richardson of Illecillewaet, took place on Saturday evening at Vancouver, a good audience being present. When both men stepped into the ring it could be seen at a glance which was the best trained man of the two. McKeown was too fat while Richardson appeared to be in the pink of condition. No unnecessary time was lost and after a little preliminary feinting the men clinched and the Illecillewaet man proved his better training by throwing McKeown. The second and third rounds were very similar and were each won by Richardson, who thus carried off the match.

Frank Grover, an eastern pugilist who was recently defeated by Joe McAuliffe, speaking of the proposed fight between John L. Sullivan and Jake Kilrain, says Sullivan will be an easy victor.

CROFTER IMMIGRATION.

A contemporary gave its readers a long dissertation on the crofter immigration to Manitoba. It seems that a discontented crofter named McIver returned to Glasgow from Winnipeg disgusted with the country. The irate highlander was not on the crofter reservation, which is some 200 miles west of Winnipeg, and therefore knew nothing of the actual state of his countrymen as managed on the Lady Cathcart settlement by that prince of political dodgers, W. B. Scarth. There he would have observed how things were managed to suit the party. The Winnipeg Call, it seems, sent a special correspondent to the Cathcart settlement, who found the crofters happy and contented. It was on the eve of an election. The politician took care of that, and also took care that the right men should be interviewed. There would have been a different tale to tell had an impartial report been given. The crofters there are bound down by restrictions, even regarding their trading, and when the time comes for an election they are plied with promises in plenty, washed down with free whiskey in quantities sufficient to make the heart of any Highland man glad. At the last general election they were promised whiskey, cows and bulls; they were given a little of the former, but very little of the latter. The whole thing was a gigantic election fraud. Thus bribed, these simple people were beguiled into voting against their own countryman, Mr. DICKIE, after giving him their promise of support. The abuses of the management of the Crofter settlements there have become a crying evil and call for redress. The benevolent Lady CATHCART never intended that her proteges should have been made the tool of any political party. Should British Columbia receive a crofter immigration, carried out by an Imperial loan, guaranteed by the province, it is hoped that means will be provided by the authorities to protect the crofters in the exercise of the franchise, such as will prevent the repetition of the incidents of the Moosomin and Whitewood districts. That a similar attempt would be made must be expected from a Government well versed in all the arts of bribery and corruption.

A VACANCY FILLED.

The senior government organ announced on Sunday morning, that the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Elwyn, deputy to the Provincial Secretary, had been filled by the appointment of Mr. Arthur Campbell Reddie, who for some months we believe has been an assistant in the department. We have the authority of the organ for saying that Mr. REDDIE has been an attentive and efficient officer and fully deserving of the "promotion." We do not know Mr. REDDIE, who is, we believe a comparatively new man in the service; but we suppose it is all right, as the organ endorses the appointment, and that he was the only man applying who was qualified for the position.

FEW FEATURES OF THE WARLIKE MESSAGE.

The request of the Senate for papers in regard to Canadian outrages on American fishing vessels induced President Cleveland to produce the following reply:

Since March, 1887, no case has been reported to the Department of State wherein complaint was made of unfriendly or unlawful treatment of American fishing vessels on the part of the Canadian authorities in which reparation was not promptly and satisfactorily obtained by the U. S. Consul-General at Halifax. A single case of the alleged unjust treatment of an American vessel, not engaged in fishing, has been reported since March 3, 1887.

The foregoing places the warlike message in its true light before the intelligence of the American people. As the fishing season is now about ended there seems to be but little likelihood that the one single instance quoted will be increased. With a little more than usual precaution on the part of the Dominion authorities there will not be a case in point where the spread eagleism of President Cleveland can find a flaw, which will reduce the unique production of the message to Congress demanding more powers of retaliation into what it has been from the first, a flagrant insult to an unoffending, peaceable neighbor, and a glaring election dodge unworthy of the head of the great party that issued it. As a stroke of policy, either diplomatic or electioneering, it will become a failure, and like the boomerang rebound with force on the hands that threw it.

Always Ahead.

Eleven cases of new goods, comprising men's, youth's, and boys' suits. Soft and stiff felt hats, etc. have just been received at the Golden Rule Clothing Store, Yates Street. 1m to be sure, but none so sacred as this. Such friendship, or rather friendship fulfilling such an office, ought to be the union of our finest feelings—a friendship whose motive power shall be sympathy of brotherly affection. Why? Because sympathy conceives friendship. Friendship conceives love, and love is friendship. There is no other kind. Bad men know naught of friendship. Bad men cannot love. Now, the value of friendship is left to ourselves to appreciate. For it will be just in proportion of our estimate of life itself. The man who is true and good and noble finds more in life than he ever can hope to realize, and so, through his friendships, he multiplies himself, makes his friendship himself and so gains more hands and feet than his own, as well as other fortresses into which to flee when his own are dismantled by misfourtune and ruin.

Into such a friendship—friendship based upon such a principle, and embodying such a purpose—we as Odd Fellows have solmenly covenanted. We have combined for the good of our fellow men. The covenant is a personal one. It is created and strengthened by personal contact. Behold its power. Again and again we have seen a large ship glide up our harbor as if drawn by some invisible bowline, with a hundred or more strong arms pulling it. Her sails unfurled, her streamers drooping, with neither side wheel nor stern wheel—still she moves steadily on in serene triumph as with her own life. But we knew that on the other side of the ship, hidden beneath the hulk that swam so majestically, there was a little toilsome steam tug, with a heart of fire and arms of iron, that was tugging it bravely on, and we knew if that little steam tug untwined itself and left the ship she would wallow and roll about and drift hither and thither and go off with the refluent tide, no man knows whither. So we have known scores of men high docked, full freighted, gay pinnoned, but that for the bare toiling arms and brave warm beating heart of the tug boat of friendship would have gone down with the stream and been heard of no more. Hail brethren to the covenant of friendship. Hail to the covenant. By such God the Eternal Father bound himself to his creatures, with a blue Heaven for a scroll and the rainbow for a seal. By such David and Jonathan swear the one to the other. "The Lord be between me and thee and between my seed and thy seed forever." In such a covenant we long to see all men united, so that to their combined efforts for universal peace and goodwill the forces of envy and selfishness may yield and take their everlasting flight.

Love.—The central link in the chain that unites Odd Fellows—Love. And perhaps nowhere do all the pages of history, sacred and profane, present us with a clearer and more impressive view of this cardinal virtue than that which is given us in the Saviour's parable of the good Samaritan. Look at the picture for a moment. The traveler plods his weary way. The day is fine. The way is pleasant, and let us hope the journey will be safe. How those pines cluster on the mountain side and in the distance the sea is so calm and beautiful. That row of green trees marks the course of Jordan—the sacred river of the chosen people. But see the traveler enters a narrow defile of hills. Alas! Alas! he is stripped of his raiment, wounded and left for dead. "Help, help." Ah, a priest is passing. Help, holy servant of the temple. I'm robbed and wounded. But no; he whose office is to have pity will not look on me. The Levite also passes by. But who comes this way? It is a hated Samaritan—an enemy of my people. Help, man of Samaria. I'm wounded and dying. "Ah," says the man of Samaria, "what have we here? An Israelite, wounded and bleeding by the wayside and the poor man is about to perish. Is he not after all my brother? Oh my friend, you shall not perish. Take this my garment for thy protection. Arise, lean upon me. Come cheer up and take heart and we will find a place of safety. Here is an inn—a place of refuge. Ho! landlord, open, open. Here, host, is a wounded man who fell by the wayside among thieves. Give him attention for he has been robbed and left for dead. Take this money and provide for him and what thou spendest more when I come again I will repay thee." Yes, this is true love. This is its practical bearing. This is the central link in the chain of Odd Fellowship. Fraternity unless embodied in acts of charity is nothing. Membership in a lodge is nothing. The obligation of friendship is nothing. The mere assertion of principle is worse than nothing. As Odd Fellows we will live what we profess and only so when we act the part of the Good Samaritan and so while we look upon this palpitating world and feel our heart swell in us large enough to hold all men within it, we'll have one great Creator's standard. For God measures souls by their capacity for entertaining His best angel, love. Who lovest best is nearest kin to God, who is all love or nothing. What He therefore wants of us, is that outreaching oneness that ignores all littleness of aims, beliefs or creeds and clasps all earth and heaven in its embrace.

Truth.—The third link in the chain of our fellowship is Truth, that which crowns the fabric, for if love be the fundamental element of all morality truth is the imperial virtue. It is the treasure for which the candid mind ever seeks, the consummation for which we apply in all our investigations. It is the sanction of every appeal that is made for the good and the right. Truth condemns wrong, opposes sin, and is directly opposed to falsehood and hypocrisy. Truth may be long in achieving its victory. But it is omnipotent and must be triumphant at last. The man of truth is the best and strongest man. His soul, like a clear spring, of water reflects the light of Heaven and is full of life. His speech and actions are always just. He wins involuntary respect. He blesses and purifies all around him. He is a solid landmark amid the waves of factious, the storms of passion and the conflicts of error. As Odd Fellows we regard the Bible—this book of books—the inexhaustible fountain of truth, the storehouse from whence are derived all our principles. Guided by its instruction we may approximate that golden age in which the fetters of prejudice will be broken in twain and the shackles of intellectual and spiritual bondage shall be torn asunder and when redeemed and disenthralled from the slavish life of the passions will assert his high birth-right and own the ties which bind him in universal consanguinity with his brother man.

Brethren and friends, these are the three links representing the grand motto of our order, Friendship, Love and Truth. They belong to that long chain of sacred friendship. Thus bound in sincere friendship we live in the bonds of peace and harmoniously pursue our labors for the amelioration of our race.

Officers and brethren my exhortation is be true to your principles. In our lodge rooms there is harmony. Outside there are adverse currents of wrong against which as true Odd Fellows we must manfully contend. Let nothing daunt us. Press onward. Be not faithless. Be open-handed, large-hearted, charitable, tender. Be Odd Fellows—odd in differing from men of passion and vice, odd in being true to your principles, odd in your efforts to protect the weak and lift up the fallen. Human life is frail. Like sands in the hour glass we are passing away. Literally blindfolded and beset on every side with danger and temptation we struggle through this earthly pilgrimage. How essential that we should learn to practice those living and immortal virtues which while they secure ultimate happiness contribute so largely to soothe the troubles and soften the asperities of life. Let us then go forth to our patient toil, let us build prisons strong, for every vice, and temples beautiful for every virtue, until at last the stately building, resting upon its strong pillars, friendship, love, and truth shall rise in all its grandeur and majesty and our work being done our eternal sire shall summon us from labor to endless rest.

The congregation then sang the Odd Fellows ode:

"How dear to my heart is the tie that uniteth
In bonds of sweet friendship the honest and true."

The service then closed with the benediction.

The Odd Fellows marched back to the lodge room where resolutions were passed tendering a hearty vote of thanks to the Rev. Mr. Wadman and to the kind ladies who had sent in the flowers and the sisters who had arranged them. It was resolved to have the sermon printed and distributed among the members.

the members re-assembled at 2 o'clock and proceeded to the cemeteries, marching in single file and each carrying bouquets of beautiful flowers which had been supplied in abundance. A large number of members from Colfax Lodge Daughters of Rebecca were also present, for whom carriages were provided. The old cemetery at the head of Kane street, Ross Bay and the Jewish cemeteries were revisited and the graves of departed brethren strewn with flowers. The following was the list at Ross Bay: C R Watkins, W J Jeffrey, W Tinson, G Petzschler, H Hennings, C Lee, A Lafrenere, G Wilby, W Jeffrey, R Jeffrey, J Stafford, R Lipsett, G Reynolds, P Fittere, T Lee, J Dwyer, I Ragazzoni, T Lee, A H Guild, J Barribean, J H Carmichael, D Palmer, E Truran, W P Marsh, J A Ordge, T Morris, H Foreman, T Hodges, L Eckstein, A Townsend, J Anderson, A C Couves, P J Hall, A Astrico, E Grancini, R McKay, G White, H Franklin, N C Bagley, W Leigh, J Speide, Thomas Price, R Jenkinson, W Spring, R Foster, A Rogers, J Stephens, J Gardiner, G J Clark, W Bowden, R Lewis, S Glover, C Ragazzoni, R Calvert, J Wallace, A Napier, C Taylor, H Rudolph.

A Common Cold

Is often the beginning of serious affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and Lungs. Therefore, the importance of early and effective treatment cannot be overestimated. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral may always be relied upon for the speedy cure of a Cold or Cough.

Last January I was attacked with a severe Cold, which, by neglect and frequent exposures, became worse, finally settling on my lungs. A terrible cough soon followed, accompanied by pains in the chest, from which I suffered intensely. After trying various remedies, without obtaining relief, I commenced taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was

I am satisfied that this remedy saved my life.—Jno. Webster, Pawtucket, R. I.

I contracted a severe cold, which suddenly developed into Pneumonia, presenting dangerous and obstinate symptoms. My physician ordered the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. His instructions were followed, and the result was a rapid and permanent cure.—H. E. Stimpson, Rogers Prairie, Tex.

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Cold, which settled on my Lungs. I consulted various physicians, and took the medicines they prescribed, but received only temporary relief. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking two bottles of this medicine, I was cured. Since then I have given the Pectoral to my children, and consider it

Some time ago I took a slight Cold, which, being neglected, grew worse, and settled on my Lungs. I had a hacking cough, and was very weak. Those who knew me best considered my life to be in great danger. I continued to suffer until I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Less than one bottle of this valuable medicine cured me, and I feel that I owe the preservation of my life to its curative powers.—Mrs. Ann Lockwood, Akron, New York.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is considered, here, the one great remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs, and is more in demand than any other medicine of its class.—J. F. Roberts, Magnolia, Ark. ††

CHAPTER V.

THE FIRE.

Where were Philip Dumoray's boys?

A wild glance around showed him they were nowhere in the room. The roaring flame sucked his breath and scorched his hair. He had barely time to save himself by the window through which Myra had vanished like a spirit.

Where was she now? Was she perishing in the flames with the children? She was not on the veranda. Fire and smoke poured from all the windows and mounted to the roof. They drove him from the veranda. He sprang down the iron supports to the ground. He ran around the burning building crying for help. The cook and the coachman flitted past him. These were all the persons in the house at the time, except his wife and children. The crowd came pouring in from the street, and in another moment the grounds were full of people. The house was a mass of flame. Heavens! were his boys in there? He fancied he heard a cry. He darted toward the fire like an insane person. Strong men caught him by the wrists and held him back.

In scarcely more time than it takes to rend this the fire had done its work. Only the bare outer walls of the house were left. The inner walls had fallen in. What had they buried under their direful ruins? One bauded Philip some clothing. He had forgotten he had only his night clothes on.

It was a pitiful thing so see him, crying for his children, calling them by their names, searching for them under the trees, peering into corners of the outbuildings, if haply they might not be hidden there. All that night he went on crazier than his insane wife. Toward morning he remembered that he was a man. He collected himself.

Messengers, descriptions of the lost children were sent in every direction. There were days, weeks of heartache for the stricken father, but no tidings of his darlings came.

Where was his wife? It was the conclusion, at first thought, that she had been burned to death, and buried under the ruins. In his agony that night Philip had not given much thought to her. But next morning a message came from Myra's mother. His wife was at her house, and would he, her husband, take her away at once, and provide for her? She had fled there in the night, from the fire. Madam did not feel safe to have her in the house.

Philip had no home for her now. There remained only one place. The poor, demented creature went to a lunatic asylum.

The origin of the fire was matter of mystery. Nothing certain could be found out? But the day after it happened the coachman came to Philip with the air of one who had something to communicate.

"It don't look well in a man to be telling tales on a woman, Mr. Dumoray," he said. "But Mary, who tended on Mrs. Dumoray, left her last night and went to a ball. I saw her at midnight. I was out myself, and I don't deny it, and didn't come home till 2 o'clock. I saw a bright light in the library, where the piles of newspapers are. I thought it was you up reading, and I didn't look in. I went by easylike, for I didn't want you to know I was out so late. I put off my shoes and slipped around to the back stairs. I saw Mrs. Dumoray going along the hall toward your room, with a night lamp in her hand. There was nobody to watch her, and she slipped out, and I think it was her set the house afire."

Philip thought so too, remembering what he had seen. But the boys, his children? Had she carried them in their sleep into her own room, or into the library, before she lit the fire? It was an awful thought.

The boys were at first given up to have perished in the burning building. But Mr. Dumoray had yet to learn the depth of devilry and cunning of which fellow hate is capable. New troubles awaited him. He had none to whom he could turn for help. His father and mother were now both dead. They had never been the same to him after his marriage. It had caused them a displeasure and disappointment they were never quite able to overcome. He took lodgings near the ruins of his home, resolved to penetrate the mystery of the disappearance of his boys. He had had the debris of the building carefully dug out and examined. A council of eminent experts was summoned. They searched the burned remains. No trace of bone or of flesh could be found. After laying their heads together they rendered an opinion of a wisdom and profundity such as only medical and chemical experts can give.

The law has a wazen nose, which the lawyer can turn to the right or left as he pleases, says the German proverb. So has medicine. The verdict of the learned ones was on this wise:

"The undersigned have to report that they have carefully examined different portions of the ashes and embers taken from the ruins of Mr. Philip Dumoray's house. They have subjected the same to rigid analysis. In their judgment traces have been found of a substance which may be construed to be the ashes of human remains. At the same time they deem it necessary to state that a similar ash is sometimes the residuum from the consumption by fire of other organic compounds.

"JAMES BENSON, M. D.,
"H. T. TOMPKINS, M. D.,
"J. L. BOYD, Pharmacist."

Here was wisdom.

Philip Dumoray was just where he was before. What should he do next? He sought every possible source of information. He examined the newspapers with fear and hope every morning, only to be overcome with the same dull, dead despair. One morning, for his comfort and encouragement, this met his eye:

"Readers of The Daily News will remember the mysterious fire which destroyed Mr. Philip Dumoray's house on Linden street a few weeks ago. At the time there were many conjectures as to its origin, but none that seemed to offer a solution of the mystery. Among the rumors current is the unpleasant one that Mr. Dumoray set fire to his own house. The gentleman's wife is out of her mind and is now in the Iron Gate asylum. The unfortunate Mrs. Dumoray was before her marriage a young lady of remarkable beauty and accomplishments, and, it is said, was crazed by domestic unhappiness. She has still some sane moments, however. During some of these flashes of reason she has let fall rambling remarks which beyond doubt point to her husband as the author of the fire. Her disordered brain clings to the fixed idea that he removed the twin boys and then fired the house. This opinion was said to be shared by Mrs. Dumoray's mother, with whom the unhappy woman took refuge when she escaped from the flames.

"Such was the rumor, too unpleasant to be credited. Accordingly, a reporter of The Daily News was sent to the house of Mrs. Dumoray's mother to trace the origin of the ugly suspicion, if possible. Mrs. Bliss is a lady noted for her charitable deeds and moves in the highest social circles.

"Our reporter was admitted to an interview, and the following conversation took place:

"Reporter—I have called, madam, to ascertain your opinion as to the truth of the rumor that your son-in-law set fire to his own house.

"Mrs. Bliss seemed overcome with emotion. Affliction such as hers should, perhaps, be sacred from the public eye. But the public is interested in unveiling the mystery, perhaps the crime, that lies back of the fire on Linden street. The lady spoke at length, with visible reluctance, substantially as follows:

"Mrs. Bliss—I would be far from laying any straw in the way of my daughter's husband. He has enough to answer for as it is. My poor darling's mental condition, and what brought her to it, are well enough known.

"Reporter—Did you understand your daughter at any time to convey the impression that she saw Mr. Dumoray applying a match to the combustible material in the library?

"Mrs. Bliss—Of course my poor daughter is out of her mind. What she says may be fact, or it may be only an insane fancy. But when she has seemed to be in her right senses she has insisted from the first that she saw her husband carry the children down stairs and out of the door to the rustic garden house. He went carefully, so as not to waken them. He left them there, and went into the library. My daughter watched him. She saw a bright blaze in the corner of the room. Then she ran away and came to me. She was frightened almost to death, as well she might have been, poor darling!

"Reporter—What motive could Mr. Dumoray have for the deed?

"Mrs. Bliss—The house was heavily insured, though I would not wish to think a man of his wealth would commit such a crime on that account. He was educated in Germany. He has often been heard to regret he ever left there. He could hide the children awhile, and then go to Germany and take them with him, after the excitement of the fire had blown over. It has been hinted to us that he wished to get rid of his wife to marry a woman in Germany. You will spare a wretched mother's feelings further, I am sure. I do not wish to be forced to conclude my son-in-law was such a monster as to—No, no, he surely would not have set fire to the house expecting that his insane wife would be burned to death! My child has been the victim of cruel wrong.

"Here the afflicted lady's feeling quite overcame her, and the reporter took his leave, after thanking her for her kindness in forcing herself to talk on a subject so repugnant to her feelings.

"Mrs. Bliss refrains from making any accusation against her son-in-law, it will be observed. Her delicacy of feeling in this respect can only increase the sympathy which must be universally drawn toward this estimable lady in her sorrows."

It fell like a thunder bolt upon Philip Dumoray. It is not too much to say that at this point his feelings also quite overcame him. He had not wholly learned, at that time, the self control which is the first duty of man to himself. He rose slowly to his feet, in a white rage, he muttered:

"——, I'll murder that old woman."

He hurried out to the street and away. He rang the bell at the Bliss mansion.

"Where is Mrs. Bliss?"

The grim old colored serving man answered:

"Yer mother-in-law's got the mewks to-day."

"Wha-a-t?"

"Yer mother-in-law's got the mewks."

"What do you mean?"

"She's got one of her spells, sir, when nobody can do nothing to please her. If you ask her if she'll have the carriage out she snaps your head off, and says we're tryin' to torment her into her grave. Then she draws her mouth down at the corners, and says she'll be in her grave soon enough, dear knows, with all her sufferings. Better not go in to-day, sir."

The man was an old familiar, and spoke his mind to Philip. But Philip strode past him. On a sofa up stairs lay the lady with the powerfully emotional nature. She had a wrinkled nose. It was red and shiny to-day from much rubbing. Her eyes were as the leaden, lifeless orbs of a mackerel in pickle. The good dame had an inexhaustible capacity for tears. Her mouth was drawn down at the corners habitually. To-day it was very far down, indeed. She looked up when she heard somebody coming.

She saw it was her son-in-law and put her handkerchief to her eyes. He had a heavy hand on her shoulder. He held the paper toward her.

"Woman, what devil's fix is this?"

Instantly she removed the handkerchief and stared at him with dry, spiteful eyes.

"Go off," she said. "It's like you. You want to beat me black and blue, do you? and drive me crazy, as you did my poor darling? Go on. I'm only a weak, helpless woman."

His hand dropped. A crimson flush, turning to purple, slowly dyed the cheek of Philip Dumoray.

"If people will talk, I'm sure I can't help it," she went on complainingly. "I don't see why you come here to insult me in my own house, and my poor darling insane, and me with my nerves all shattered."

"She put up her handkerchief again.

"I beg your pardon," said Philip. "But you must know you set this lie going yourself, by your insinuations."

Down went the handkerchief.

"The idea!" exclaimed Mrs. Bliss.

Have you ever noticed how a woman looks when she says—the idea! A man never says it. Into these two words she puts all the emphasis that should go with those stronger expressions, the use of which is denied her on account of her sex. She may not swear, she may not fire a bootjack at the candle, she may not even go off and drown her sorrows. She may only say—the idea! In that one expletive she must vent all the venom and vinegar of her gentle nature.

Mrs. Bliss sat bolt upright and remarked—"The idea!"

Philip Dumoray sighed. His mind was settling into the coldness of despair. He saw the disadvantage he was at. The lady saw the advantage which was hers. Up went the handkerchief.

"You came here to bring me down with sorrow to an early grave," she whined. "As if I hadn't got enough to bear from you now, with my poor darling where she is, and my nerves all shattered—boo-hoo!"

Philip turned away. The lady had left a corner of one eye uncovered to watch him. She saw the movement, and sat upright again. She became majestic. In the consciousness of injured virtue and superior sufferings, the estimable lady fairly towered, at that moment. With a scepter-like wave of her hand towards the door, and in a toploftical tone of voice, she said:

"Relieve this mansion of your odious presences instantly!"

Well, he went.

He resolved to do what he could to right the wrong he had wrought. He set aside a portion of his property in the hands of trustees who would use the income for the care of his wife. Thus she was surely provided for. The rest he would devote to searching the earth for his sons. He could not give them up.

He spent all his fortune in the search for his boys. At last he gave them up for dead. He returned home. No comfort for him there. He found himself looked upon with coldness and mistrust. Men who had broken his bread in better days passed him without speaking. Women who had been his mother's friends gave him a glance of horror, and hurried on, in the common belief he had fired his own house with the monstrous intent that his insane wife should perish within. Thus skillfully had malice wrought its work.

He had now to earn his bread. He looked for work. Who would give employment to one suspected of so foul a crime? No man. At length he was driven to say:

"I will go away, where no living creature has heard my name. I will shut this hateful world out of my sight."

Were not these hard lines for a young man who had always had his own way?

An Explanation.

What is this "nervous trouble" with which so many seem now to be afflicted? If you will remember a few years ago the word Malaria was comparatively unknown—to day it is as common as any word in the English language, yet this word covers only the meaning of another word used by our forefathers in times past. So it is with nervous diseases, as they and Malaria are intended to cover what our grandfathers called Biliousness, and all are caused by troubles that arise from a diseased condition of the Liver which in performing its functions finding it cannot dispose of the bile through the ordinary channel is compelled to pass it off through the system, causing nervous troubles, Malaria, Bilious Fever, etc. You who are suffering can well appreciate a cure. We recommend Green's August Flower. Its cures are marvelous.

—Boys Oxfords at cost also Misses slippers at the People's Boot and Shoe Store. *

—There is nothing equal to Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator for destroying worms. No article of its kind has given such satisfaction. *

—For the past day or two the air has been filled with smoke, apparently from fires on the mainland and in Washington Territory.

—The special train from Vancouver for Kamloops, with the lacrosse and baseball teams and other excursionists, consisted of five cars and a baggage car, all crowded.

—Holloway's Corn Cure is the medicine to remove all kinds of corns and warts, and only costs the small sum of twenty-five cents. *

—A building society, on the same lines as those in existence in Victoria, was organized in Vancouver on Saturday night, when thirty-one shares were subscribed for by those present at the meeting.

—Take Ayer's Pills and be cured. Misery is a mild word to describe the sufferings of body and mind, caused by habitual constipation. A moderate use of Ayer's Pills will invariably regulate the bowels.*

—Some person drove a fish spear into a horse's shoulder, at Vancouver, and left it sticking there, with the handle broken off. Now, supposing the miscreant were identified, what punishment would fit the crime?

—Canker humors of every description, whether in the mouth, throat, or stomach, are expelled from the system by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. No other remedy can compare with this, as a cure for all diseases originating in impure or impoverished blood. *

—For the largest and best assortment of FURNITURE, CARPETS, CROCKERY, GLASSWARE, LAMPS, &c., go to J. SEHL, Government Street, where you are sure to get suited in style, quality and lowest prices. *

—John Hayes, Credit P.O., says:—"His shoulder was so lame for nine months that he could not raise his hand to his head, but by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil the pain and lameness disappeared, and although three months has elapsed, he has not had an attack of it since." *

—Tomb and Headstones, Monuments, in Marble, imported and local Granite, Mantle pieces and Wash Stands in Marble, artistically executed, and at reasonable rates, at George, Hutton's Marble Works, Douglas street, Victoria. Call and see specimens of work. *

—There is not a more dangerous class of disorders than those which affect the breathing organs. Nullify this danger with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil—a pulmonic of acknowledged efficacy. It cures lameness and soreness when applied externally, as well as swelled neck and crick in the back; and, as an inward specific, possesses most substantial claims to public confidence. *

—Premonitions of approaching danger, in the shape of digestive weakness, lassitude, inactivity of the kidneys, pains in the region of the liver and shoulder blades, mental depression coupled with headache, furred tongue, vertigo, should not be disregarded. Use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspepsia Cure, and avert the peril to health. It removes all impurities and gives tone to the whole system. *

—Mr. George Tolen, Gravenhurst, Ont., writes: "My customers who have used Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic cure say that it has done them more good than anything they have ever used." It has indeed a wonderful influence in purifying the blood and curing diseases of the Digestive Organs, the Liver, Kidneys, and all disorders of the system. *

Tea Meeting.

An entertainment will be held at the Gorge Road Methodist Church to-morrow evening. Refreshments will be served at 7 o'clock. An attractive programme has been prepared for the occasion.

Pawnbrokers License.

In Vancouver the license for pawnbrokers is $300 per annum; why should they not be the same here? The pawnbrokers' profits are very large and they can well afford to pay a high license.—Guardian.

Raffle for a Horse.

A raffle for a horse took place at the Bee Hive Saloon on Saturday evening. There were 175 chances at $1 per chance. Several parties held 15 and 20 chances, but A. C. Howe, who only held one, carried off le cheval with a throw of 47.

The Wedding Boom.

Seattle has been struck by the wedding boom and Victorians have carried the orange blossoms to the shores of Puget Sound. On Friday last a marriage license was issued in Seattle to Herbert A. Budge and Miss Rosa Medana, both of Victoria.

Lady Macdonald.

His Honor Lieut. Governor Nelson received a telegram last evening stating that Lady Macdonald, Miss Macdonald and Mrs. Allen would not arrive in this city until Tuesday evening. The party was detained by the late arrival of the train at Vancouver.

Youm Kippur.

S. S. Hymas, of this city, occupied the pulpit at the opening services of the Youm Kippur at Seattle on Friday last. He delivered a sermon on "Brotherly Love and Tolerance." Pythian Hall was well filled with Jewish residents; the speaker's remarks were listened to with rapt attention.

Retired from Business.

W. G. Norris has disposed of his property on Johnson street, between Broad and Douglas streets, and will retire from business with a well earned competency. For a number of years the gentleman has been carrying on a general store, and has been greatly respected by all his patrons for his upright dealings. Ald. Pemwill purchased Mr. Norris' property on Johnson street.

Leech River Mines.

W. G. Stevenson returned from Leech River on Saturday afternoon. He is very much pleased with the location and left ten men at work with Mr. Keefer, an experienced California hydraulic miner, in charge. Mr. Stevenson reports that a number of shares have been taken up. He will leave for the mines on Wednesday with a number of gentlemen who intend to take shares in the company.

Corrig School.

This school has opened with an attendance of over thirty boys from some of our most respected families. The Rev. Mr. Brenton, as principal, gives the pupils the benefit of his wide experience, and is assisted by an able body of assistants. Mr. John Talbot, an experienced and successful master from Nonington School, Kent, England, has just arrived to act as assistant resident master.

For Old England.

H. M. S. Cormorant sailed for Valparaiso this morning. She will call at the naval stations in the south and will reach England next year. The men were on general leave on Saturday and enjoyed a drive in the country in a large wagon. The officers and men leave many friends in this city who wish them a pleasant journey to their homes in the mother country.

The Fire Fiend.

The furniture factory owned by Geo. Rosman & Otto Roeder, of Tacoma, was burned on Friday night. The loss will probably reach $20,000; insurance $8,000.

A most disastrous fire visited Spokane Falls on Friday evening. A clean sweep was made of the buildings on the block fronting on Main street, between Howard and Mill streets. Loss $100,000.

The World.

Vancouver wants the earth and is going to get it. The World, a new evening daily, will appear on Saturday, 29th inst. The politics of the new journal has not yet been announced, but it is not improbable that a paper bearing such a cosmopolitan name will take a broad and liberal view of things in general, especially as the proprietors are broad and liberal-minded men. There is a fine field in Vancouver for a liberal newspaper, and if the World is not too much tempted by the flesh and the devil, under the guise of government "patronage," it will have a glorious mission before it in preaching the gospel of political regeneration through faith in the great Liberal party.

Vancouver's Park.

Mayor Oppenheimer, of Vancouver, has proclaimed Thursday, the 27th inst., as a public holiday, when the magnificent new park will be formally opened and delivered into the hands of the commissioners who will in future have charge of it on behalf of the corporation. The suggestion of a name for the park has been left to Sir Donald Smith, who has conferred with Lord Stanley on the subject. The correspondence and the name will be made pubbe on the holiday, when all Vancouver will be en fete. The park is certainly one of the finest in extent and situation on the continent, and with the aid of money judiciously expended it can be made one of the most beautiful in the world. The drive which follows the coast line, is about ten miles and the road is in good order. If this had been done in two or three years what will those people not be able to accomplish say in ten years. In the meantime Victorians are dreaming of Cedar Hill and the magnificent park there.

PERSONAL.

Items Telling of the Movements of Well Known Persons.

Dr J D Helmcken is ill.

Geo Byrnes returned from Vancouver last night.

H B Smith, C E, arrived in this city last evening.

H. E. Croasdaile, has been confined to bed for several days.

A C Reddie has been appointed Deputy Provincial Secretary.

Capt. C. E. Clancey arrived in this city on Saturday evening.

R. Collister returned on Saturday evening from the mainland.

E V Bodwell arrived on last night's steamer from Vancouver.

Captain Gaudin arrived on Saturday evening on the steamer Yosemite.

F. A. Pauline came down on the steamer Yosemite on Saturday night.

A McCandless was a passenger on last night's steamer from the mainland.

Harry Arkell, the well-known merchant of Vancouver, is at the Clarence.

G. A. Keefer, C. E., was a passenger from the mainland on Saturday's steamer.

Capt W H Copp, of Vancouver, and Ed Barkely, Cowichan, are at the Clarence.

A. C. Flummerfelt returned to this city on the steamer Yosemite on Saturday evening.

A Clearihue returned from the mainland on Sunday evening on the steamer Yosemite.

W J Sutton will make a tour of inspection of the mines of Nicola, Lillooet and Illecillewaet.

G. R. Harris, of Boston, a director of the C. P. R., and a party of eight, is expected in Victoria to-night.

H B Smith, Vancouver, H Smither, New Westminster, and J Van Volkenburgh, Vancouver, are at the Driard.

E W Matthews, of Dun, Wyman & Co., leaves on a business trip to the mainland in the morning. He will be absent about a week.

Mr King, of King & Casey, arrived from Comox Saturday evening. Mr King says the logging camp will be shut down about the last of the month.

Mr Alfred I F McKiernan, a teacher of vocal music, has arrived from San Francisco to fill an engagement at Angela College. Mr. McKiernan has been a pupil of Saujiovani of Florence, Carsecciolo of Naples, and Carlo Lamperti, La Scala, Milan, and comes to Victoria with very high recommendations of ability. He is stopping at Roscabella.

Mr. O'Brien, who for the past two years edited the Colonist, has severed his connection with that paper and will leave for Vancouver in a few days to take a similar position on the World, which will make its début on the 29th inst. The World will be published jointly by Messrs. O'Brien and McLagan, who will be the proprietors and editors. It is needless to say that if the success of the new journal is dependent solely upon the ability of its management, its prosperity is assured in advance. Mr. O'Brien will carry with him from Victoria the good wishes not only of the profession of which he is a young and able member, but also of all those who had the pleasure of his personal acquaintance. He will spend a few days at the Harrison Hot Springs before resuming work.

CITY COUNCIL.

Special Meeting on Saturday Night to Discuss Drainage.

A special meeting of the City Council was held on Saturday evening to consider the sewerage question. Present, His Worship Mayor Grant, Ald. Harris, Styles, Powell, Harris and Kelly.

The City Surveyor reported that the plans would be ready on Wednesday evening.

Ald. Powell was in favor of communicating with Pickering & Compton regarding the cost of completing the work according to their plans.

Ald. Harris considered the Pickering system too costly.

Ald. Kelly and Coughlan were in favor of calling for tenders immediately for the Johnson street sewer.

Ald. Styles wanted the work done by day labor.

His Worship considered that the work should be done by contract.

The Board decided to construct the Johnson street sewer and will call for tenders for the work to be completed in sections.

The assessment roll was passed.

Board adjourned.

Marine Notes.

Steamship Parthia sailed for Vancouver from Hong Kong on Sept. 8th.

Steamship Batavia from Hongkong passed up to Vancouver on Sunday morning.

Steamship Mexico arrived from San Francisco at 1 o'clock this morning with 199 tons of freight for this port.

Capt. Carver, of the American ship Llewellyn J. Morse, died at sea August 7th, while the vessel was bound from Calcutta to New York. Death was caused by dropsy. Capt. Carver formerly commanded the ship Oneida. He was about sixty years of age.

The steamship George W. Elder, which has been running on the Alaska route all summer, is now at the bunkers at Seattle taking on a cargo of coal for San Francisco. It is understood that on her arrival below she will be laid up and thoroughly overhauled. A contract was recently let to the Union Iron Works to build new boilers and engines for the Elder and she will be placed in first-class condition before she comes out again. In the meantime the Idaho and Ancon will perform the service on the Alaska route.

Correction.

In our Saturday's report of the volunteer review we inadvertantly inserted the name of Lieut. Laug, R. E., as forming one of the brilliant staff of the inspecting officer. It should have been District Paymaster Jones instead.

In the Colonist report of the parade, the line is made to appear to have "advanced in review order," before the march past. That movement on this, as on all other like occasions, is the final to the parade manœuvers of a review. It was executed after the march past and not before as stated. Neither is the movement in question "entirely new to volunteers" and there is nothing so "very difficult" about it either.

Church Parade.

The B. C. G. A., under command of Lieut.-Colonel Prior, paraded at the drill shed yesterday morning at 10 o'clock and marched, headed by their band, to Christ Church Cathedral, where they attended divine service. The corps, as they marched through the city, presented a fine martial appearance, and are showing evidences of care and attention in matters of drill and discipline, which redound greatly to their credit. Were church parades and a little more marching out indulged in by our city corps, it would not only be of advantage to the members, but also tend to bring the service into popularity. The martial spirits of our youth would receive an impulse to partake in the martial proceedings, and the ranks would consequently be greatly augmented. These parades are a great recruiting agent.

A Success.

The French Hotel, under the management of Mr. Escalet, is meeting with excellent success. All speak in glowing terms of the cuisine. The place to get the best dinner in town. Meals at all hours during the day. *

OUR TOWN MAJOR.

The Military Review on Beacon Hill, Saturday.

The Major hastens to offer his congratulations to "our brave defenders" for the splendid turn-out they made at Beacon Hill on Saturday. In physique they, one and all, were everything to be desired. As the Shah of Persia said about the Household Cavalry Brigade, "it was a pity there was not more of them." The appearance and discipline of C Battery on parade were simply splendid, and may well serve as a model to our civilian army. Regarding the B. C. G. A. and the Victoria Rifle Company, well, they did their best. The material is there, and with a little more attention to field drill would be passable enough. An addition to the rank and file would not be out of place when taking into account the number of officers. At the saluting point during the march past there were cocked hats and white helmets enough to run the Aldershot Division. A few more in the ranks would have looked better. The march past was better than the Major expected; the front company of the B C G A although not perfect—still it was good. In the march past at the double the C Battery was what it should be, especially in the wheel. This latter is a difficult movement, and requires a large amount of training to bring troops up to the mark; therefore anything like perfection is not to be expected. As it was they acquitted themselves remarkably well. The advance in parade order was executed fairly. One officer had not the presence of mind to lower his sword in the salute; he brought it to the recover right enough, and instead of lowering it in salute, came to the carry. When in the latter position it would look better to throw the right elbow more forward. The "galloper" galloped all over, from the horse's ears to his tail In the trot past it must be recollected that in military riding it is not laid down that you're to hang on to the horse's mouth; if you want to hang on, have a handle put to the saddle. At the trot the right arm should hang loosely with the back of the hand to the front, not bobbing up and down beating time to the music on the holsters. Colonel Holmes' military riding was all that could be desired; he rode as an officer should do. The marches selected were the old Rifle Brigade's "95" and "Minnie Must," all very well for light troops, the former a little too fast for Granadiers. As marching music it was executed to perfection. However, what's the use of having soldiers when they are only half equipped? Our artillery are without guns, our wooden magazines blown up—who ever heard of a wooden magazine—the B. C. G. A. and Victoria Rifle Company without a knapsack that the Major could see, the latter with white haversacks, not a round of ammunition, no forts, and even the elite without a proper place to lay their heads. The thing is a farce, and a laughable one, too. We have an army of officers, with a few men, neither armed or equipped to suit modern improvements of warfare.

A lady of the major's acquaintance received a letter the other day from Portland, in which it was stated that the writer was a constant reader of "The Town Major," and greatly admired the way in which the "Gardner-Chinese case was handled. The writer was of opinion that if Gardner's office is removed to Vancouver that it is the commencement of the insertion of the thin end of the wedge for the ultimate removal of all Dominion and even provincial officers to that city. It behooves the citizens of Victoria to jealously guard against such liberties being taken. Had other precautions been taken in times gone by things would have been different. No use saying it is a paltry thing, only $100 a month or so, but recollect it is a beginning, and small beginnings have great endings. It never has been known to fail by

Positively Our Last Week

—AND—

Your Last Chance!

WE WOULD SAY TO THOSE WHO HAVE not availed themselves of the grand opportunity they have had for the past two weeks of getting a First Cabinet Photo at from $3.00 to $4.00 per dozen, and the best work in the city, you will have the chance to do so this week only, up to Saturday, September 22nd. This is positively our last day that we shall make pictures at those prices. Remember that we guarantee first-class work, and that you will get just what you pay for, if you pay for one dozen Cabinet Photos you will get them, and they will be finished here in your city. Do not let the thought run away with you, that we intend to run away with your money and leave you in the lurch. I would say how long would my business exist in doing otherwise than a straight honest business? I would not have time to get to another town before every man, woman, boy and child would know of it, and the result would be a "Busted Photographer" for ever. I am no amateur, not experimenting. I have run this business for over five years, and I can save you $4 00 on each dozen Cabinet Photos. If you don't credit this come and see for yourself. We can show you, not only 8 or 10 people, but hundreds that we have made pictures for here in Victoria, see if they have been swindled. Seeing is believing.

Come this week and see us at the Tents, Corner Courtnay and Government Streets, opposite the Windsor Hotel. Respectfully

Great Eastern Photo and Advertising Co.

R. H. GARDINER, Manager.

P. S.—If the "Gentleman" who was kicking last week will come around we will show him our books, where he may see that we pay our Taxes, License Water bills, Duties on all our goods, and if he has ever presented a bill it has been paid. We still continue to make Fine Cabinet Photos for $3 00 and $4.00 per dozen this week only, ending 22nd inst. sep17 3t

TO THE PUBLIC.

We have this day disposed of the Stock and Good-will of our business to Mr. Robt. Jamieson. Thanking the public for the generous patronage extended us in the past, we solicit the same to our successor.

Parties indebted to us will find Mr. Ferguson at the office of Mr. Jamieson until the 17th inst.

FERGUSON & CO.

As will be seen by the above I have purchased the entire Stock and Good-will of the Book and Stationery business of Ferguson & Co., and am actively engaged in removing the stock in my old stand to the more spacious premises lately occupied by that firm, next door to the Post Office.

With the two Stocks combined, and goods enroute, I shall have the largest and most complete stock in this line in the Province, and confidently ask for a continuance of the patronage so liberally accorded to me in the old store and to my predecessors in this.

AUCTION : SALE

—OF A—

VALUABLE FARM!

I am instructed by J. J. RUSSELL, Esq., to sell by Public Auction on the land known as "STRAWBERRY VALE FARM," situated at the head of Victoria Arm.

On Monday, Oct. 8, '88,

AT 12 O'CLOCK, NOON.

The Farm comprises 687 acres, more or less, all under fence, and a number of acres under cultivation. The property is the following distances from the following points, viz.: Victoria Post Office by public road, 4 miles; by water, 3 miles; from the Esquimalt-Nanaimo Railway, and Esquimalt roadstead site, 1 mile; by water, a half mile. It has a good water frontage at the head of the Arm. On the property is some valuable Pine and Oak Timber. The Farm will be sold in three pieces. The land will be correctly surveyed and sold according to the survey of Mr. Heisch, which will be a guarantee of correctness. Plenty of fresh water can be obtained from Springs on the property, and a stream runs through the land at the North end.
